

About the charities

Udavum Karangal (Helping Hands) is a registered, non-governmental, non-religious and non-profit social service organization, established in 1983 in Tamil Nadu, India, with the sole objective of serving 1900+ abandoned/orphaned children (starting from infant to all ages), special needs children, male and female psychiatric patients, terminally ill patients and female destitutes. For the benefit of the growing children the organization has its own school where non-resident underprivileged/rural children also study. This was started in a small rented hut and due to the support of compassionate donors like you it has since grown and taken shape by itself and emerged as a 'round the clock service home.'

Nava Nritya Dance Academy is a school beyond dancing. It promotes much cultural awareness & responsibility to many global causes. It specializes in South Indian Classical Dance, Bharatnatyam, as well as a unique style of "Navanritya", (an amalgamation of contemporary forms of classical dance, martial arts, yoga, ballet & more).

Earlier this year, we celebrated the dance school's 5th anniversary and believe its best is yet to come. The students are its family, and the academy is a part of their lives. Over the years Nava Nritya has raised $47,500 for several charities. Today, we hope to add more value to the society that we live in, through the art form we love so much - Bharatnatyam & Navanritya Dancing! The entire Nava Nritya Dance Academy Family thanks you for your continued support and looks forward to a more exciting future together.
